

Department of Economics Honours Alumni

The Department of Economics is continuing to develop an Honours Alumni Network. The Network is intended to facilitate professional and personal contact between Honours graduates, and to encourage an on-going relation with the Department of Economics. The Department has gathered details of past Economics Honours graduates from 1938. We hope that graduates will benefit from involvement with the Network through:

- Access to information on Department seminars, public lectures and other events;
- Special alumni professional and social activities; and
- A newsletter for alumni providing information about the Department – for example, about current research work of Department members.

The Department is very proud of its reputation for producing quality Honours graduates in Economics. By providing the opportunity for you to benefit from continued contact with the Department and your fellow Honours graduates, we want to further develop this reputation and build on the tradition of our Honours program.
