

The University of Melbourne
Department of Economics and Melbourne Institute
Microeconometrics Research Unit (MRU)

Panel and Longitudinal Data: Methods and Applications Workshop

Wednesday 14th April 2010

Location: Upper East Dining Room, University House, University of Melbourne

- | | |
|----------------------|---|
| 9.00-10.00 | Frank Windmeijer, Department of Economics, University of Bristol
What's the point of class? Random coefficients versus latent class models |
| 10.00-11.00 | William Griffiths, Department of Economics, University of Melbourne
A stochastic frontier model for discrete ordinal outcomes: A health production function |
| 11.00-11.30 | Morning Tea |
| 11.30-12.30 | Steven Stillman, Motu Economic and Public Policy Research
Longitudinal evidence on the impact of crime victimisation on individual wellbeing |
| 12.30-13.30 | Lunch |
| 13.30-14.30 | Andrew Jones, Department of Economics and Related Studies, University of York
The Impact of childhood cognitive and non-cognitive skills, social adjustment, and quality of schooling on adult health and lifestyle |
| 14.30 – 15.30 | Hielke Buddelmeyer, Melbourne Institute, University of Melbourne
Dynamics of informal employment in South Africa |
| 15.30-16.00 | Afternoon Tea |
| 16.00-17.00 | Paul Frijters, School of Economics, University of Queensland
Intrahousehold resource allocation: Do parents reduce or reinforce child ability gaps? |

There is no cost for attending the workshop. Refreshments and lunch will be provided.

A workshop dinner will be held at 6pm at Café Italia in Carlton. Speakers will be guests of the Microeconometrics Research Unit. Dinner is expected to be around $70 pp for others. Please RSVP by Friday 9th April to Heidi Bacher (heidimb@unimelb.edu.au) for lunchtime catering purposes and indicate whether you will also be attending the dinner.